Who are Orthopedic Surgeons?

Orthopedic surgeons are doctors who fix bones, joints, and muscles. They help people with broken bones, sports injuries, or body parts that don't move quite right. They do surgeries like fixing fractures, straightening spines, or replacing joints like hips and knees.

Would you rather...

If you were an orthopedic surgeon, would you rather fix broken bones right after an accident in the emergency room, or do carefully planned surgeries like knee or spine repairs to help people move better over time?
